Pseudonyms!

Fill in the missing names/pseudonyms as appropriate

one point per name plus bonus points on Qs4 and 5!

1. Jane Austen did not admit to authorship of Sense and Sensibility when it was first published. How did she describe herself?

…….

2. What were the pseudonyms of the three Bronte sisters:

……...

3. Which Russian physician and author used the pseudonym Человек без селезенки (‘Man without a Spleen’) and ‘My Brother’s Brother’.

…….

4. Who used the pseudonym C.3.3. (denoting the third cell on the third floor of C ward) when claiming authorship of a poem dedicated to CTW. One point for the author, one for the poem and one if you know the 1896 incident that it described.

…….

……...

5. Vivian Beynon Harris was a mildly successful published author however his older brother was more prolific and is far better known (and published in Penguin). His mother’s uncle, Sir Edward Ebenezer Parkes, was an English Liberal Unionist MP for Birmingham Central.
Who is the older brother? Bonus points if you can give his full name (a combination of which he published under at various times).

……...

6. Karen Blixen wrote Out of Africa first published in 1937 and in Penguin in 1954 [913]. What pseudonym did she also use?

…….

7. Under what name did Mary Ann Evans write?

…….

Mixed Bag

1. Usually known by their initials, what were these authors full names?
(even partly filled names will get points!)

C S Lewis …….

P G Wodehouse …….

G K Chesterton …….

2. Shakespeare plays and the number of deaths that occurred within them
To make it easier (!), the body count is shown above the list so you just have to decide which number goes with which play.
(NB: the body count includes only characters who are shown to die or who are named as having been killed. Anonymous hoards are discounted. With thanks to 'A Listful of Horrors by Thomas J Ricken)

0, 0, 1, 2, 2, 5, 5, 6, 9, 13

Antony and Cleopatra ……..

Coriolanus ……..

Cymbeline ……..

Henry V ……..

Julius Caesar ……..

Macbeth ……..

The Tempest ……..

Merchant of Venice ……..

Titus Andronicus ……..

The Winter's Tale ……..

(Bonus point if you can say how we presume one of the protagonists died in The Winter's Tale – second bonus point if you give the correct stage direction.)

……

3. Whose initial brief was to create a design which 'was to look fresh at all times, even after bricklayers had sat on it' and on what was this design being used. For a bonus point, on which Penguin series might this designer most often be found.

……...